EARL'S HEIR CHRISTENED

The Bishop of Carlisle with the infant Lord Howard of Morpeth (also inset) in his arms after he had christened the child at Lanercost Priory. The little viscount is the heir of the Earl of Carlisle, and has one little sister, born in 1919. Lady Carlisle is a daughter of Lord Ruthven.

WEMBLEY INQUIRY

Sir Travers Clarke, deputy chairman of the Exhibition at Wembley.

Mr. U. F. Wintour, general manager of the Exhibition.

Mr. J. C. Clegg (left) and Mr. F. J. Wall, the Football Association's president and secretary. The F.A. is preparing a report.

WOUNDED GIRL FORGIVES

Miss Lena Cole, for wounding whom Bernard O'Sullivan (inset), was sentenced to ten years' penal servitude. His appeal was dismissed yesterday. It was stated that the girl had written to him that she would wait for him, and that she took half the blame.

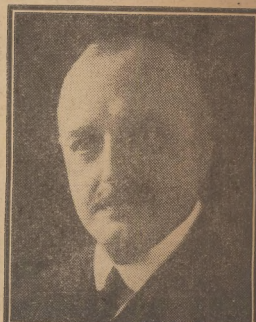

SCRATCHING OF TOWN GUARD

Town Guard, the winter favourite for the Derby, which his owner, Lord Woolavington (inset) struck out of the Two Thousand Guineas yesterday. The horse has been doing badly in his gallops at Newmarket lately.

Sir H. McMahon, chairman of Exhibition Management Committee.

Major Belcher, chairman of Exhibition Publicity Committee.

The Government will decide to-morrow on receiving a report from the police whether they will hold an inquiry into events at the Cup final at Wembley. Sir Travers Clarke states that the trouble was due directly to the totally unprecedented crowd.

GIRL'S LETTERS OF FORGIVENESS.

"I Shall Wait for You" to Sentenced Man.

'TAKE HALF BLAME.'

Prisoner Undergoing Ten Years' for Attacking Her.

A young woman's remarkable letters of forgiveness were read in the Court of Criminal Appeal yesterday to the Lord Chief Justice and Justices Shearman and Branson in the appeal of Bernard Anthony O'Sullivan against a sentence of ten years' penal servitude.

O'Sullivan was sentenced for wounding Miss Lena Cole with a flatiron with intent to murder her, and the crime was said to be one of jealousy.

"I do not hate you," she wrote to him after his sentence. "I shall wait for you if you want me. I am prepared to take half the blame."

Dismissing the appeal, the Lord Chief Justice said the letters—one among others wishing the man success in his appeal—did credit to Miss Cole's kindly disposition.

"TRY TO CHEER UP."

Lord Chief Justice's Tribute to Girl's Kindly Disposition.

Mr. N. P. D'Albuquerque, for the appellant, said that the letters were one of jealousy, for O'Sullivan had professed his love for Miss Cole and was upset at the fact that she had renewed her engagement with another man. He had served in the war and was wounded and gassed and became morbid afterwards through unemployment and drink.

Still, he was the sole support of a widowed mother, and his record was without blemish. After he attacked Miss Cole he at once repeatedly expressed his contrition.

With a generosity that was remarkable, Miss Cole had fully forgiven the man. She had recovered and was able to return to her work in the Post Office.

"I LOVE YOU TRULY."

She had written him a number of letters since he had been in prison, one of which ran:—

"I do not hate you. I will wait for you if you want me. I love you and always shall do so. Try to cheer up. I shall always think of and pray for you."

In another she wrote, wishing him success in his appeal.

"I am prepared to take half the blame or more. I love you truly and will wait if you want me to."

Dismissing the appeal, the Lord Chief Justice said there was no doubt that O'Sullivan intended to murder the girl, for he openly stated that he had had some drinks to give him the courage to do so. He was convinced that if he could not possess her nobody should.

The Court thought the young woman's letters did credit to a kindly disposition, but, in common with other women, she must be protected from such crimes of violence.

FLOGGING FOR SEAMAN.

Twenty Strokes of the "Cat" for Man Who Attacked Sailor.

Sentence of three years' penal servitude and twenty strokes of the "cat" was passed at the Old Bailey yesterday on James Chandler, a seaman, who was found guilty of robbery with violence of a sailor in Whitechapel.

The Recorder (Sir E. W. White) said that those who go down to the sea in ships had quite enough perils to encounter in their vocation, but perhaps the greatest dangers of all were the land sharks who haunted the quays and public-houses ready to take advantage of sailors who came ashore after being paid off.

TRIBUTE TO LORD NORTHCLEFFE.

At the Festival Dinner of the National Advertising Society, Viscount Astor announced that subscriptions and donations amounted to £4,000. Paying a tribute to the late Lord Northcliffe, Lord Astor said he thought all those connected with journalism would feel that they owed a considerable amount to him.

KRASSIN TO RESIGN.

M. Krassin has decided to resign from the Soviet Government, according to a message from Helsingfors to the Stockholm Tidningen, because the Communist Congress rejected his proposals. It is expected, says the Exchange, that Krassin will be followed by other prominent Soviet economists.

CHEAPER BUTTER.

2d. a Pound Drop Through Colonial Slump.

BIG DANISH SUPPLIES.

There is good news for housewives. Butter prices are tumbling down, and it ought to be possible this week for grocers to reduce their prices 2d. per lb.

The explanation of the drop in prices is due to the fact that the supply of Colonial butter during the last few weeks has exceeded the demand.

What is described as a "staggering slump" in Australian and Danish butter, and also Irish supplies, set in about two months ago.

In the last fortnight, for instance, there has been a drop of 2s. per cwt., and some buyers of Colonial butter who had been "rigging" the market have been badly hit.

They are now unloading their holdings as rapidly as possible. Meanwhile, supplies of Danish butter are coming on to the English market, and there is every indication that prices will continue to fall.

As a result of the slump it was possible to buy the best New Zealand butter in London, Manchester and other centres yesterday at 1s. 6d. and 1s. 8d. per lb.

FOOD TRANSPORT CUTS.

Lower Goods Rates to Aid Farmers, Traders and Housewives.

To-day railway goods rates for thousands of articles will be reduced by fifteen per cent. Rates for agricultural products and requirements and cattle will be reduced by twenty-five per cent. There will also be a reduction in rates for small parcels by goods and passenger train.

For instance, to send a ton of butter from London to Liverpool will now cost 3s. 3d., as compared with yesterday's rate of 4s. 5d. The cost of sending a ton of sugar from Liverpool to London will be 30s. 11d., instead of 35s. 3d.

Obviously this will benefit agriculture and trade, and it is hoped, the consumer also. A specimen rate affecting the building trade is that for sending a ton of bricks from South Staffordshire to London—10s. 8d. instead of 11s. 8d.

LIGHT CARS OF THE SKY

Duke of Sutherland on Week-Ends in £80 Aeroplanes.

"I believe the day is not far distant when you will be able to run out your little £80 aeroplane and go off for the week-end, much as you can do with a light car to-day."

So said the Duke of Sutherland, Under-Secretary to the Air Ministry, at a meeting yesterday of the Working Habitation of the Primrose League.

Improvements in light aeroplane design were being so rapidly pushed forward that soon, he hoped, it would be impossible even for the greatest fool to fall out and hurt himself.

A regular air service to India in seventy-two hours seemed a dream of the distant future, but as a matter of fact he had just examined plans for such a service, which he believed would be in operation before long.

"THE OUTSIDER."

Surgical Controversy Play Has Its First Night at Folkestone.

"The Outsider," a new play by Miss Dorothy Brandon, was performed by Mr. Leon M. Lion's company for the first time at the Pleasure Gardens Theatre, Folkestone, last night, and was given a most enthusiastic reception.

Described as a story of body and soul, it is a play which will provoke controversy in the surgical world. The Outsider is Anton Ragatzky, a surgical instrument maker, who has achieved remarkable results in the cure of cripples.

There is controversy between the surgeons and the surgical instrument maker, and the ending of the play is an ingenious compromise.

Mr. Leslie Faber as Anton Ragatzky, Miss Isobel Elsom as Lalage Sturdee and Mr. Dawson Milward as her father, Gaspar Sturdee, gave striking portrayals, and the acting of the rest of the cast was also of a high order.

The play is likely to have a successful run when it comes to London at the end of May.

Miss Dorothy Brandon, the authoress, who, by the aid of two sticks, appeared on the stage in response to repeated calls, was given a very warm welcome.

Sir Beddce Rees.

RURAL "RAPACITY."

Vicar on Dunning of Rich Men for Subscriptions.

PEER WHO TOOK TITHES.

"We country folk are very rapacious, and when we have a rich man come to live amongst us we mercilessly dun him for subscriptions," said a Sussex clergyman who was the defendant in a King's Bench Division suit heard yesterday by Mr. Justice Coleridge.

He was the Rev. Frank Tatchell, vicar of Midhurst, and he was sued by Major the Hon. Weetman Harold Pearson (son of Lord Cowdray) for £189, the amount of dilapidations at the vicarage working men's club.

Mr. Tatchell conducted his own case. He referred to the time when Lord Cowdray, by buying his Sussex estate, became patron of the living and Lord Rector of Midhurst.

"By some wicked old law," said Mr. Tatchell, "he took the major tithes of the place, leaving me with £98 a year—about as much as he would pay his footman."

The vicar explained that he persuaded Lord Cowdray to convert some condemned cottages into a working men's club and, as a formality, he agreed to take the lease, as president and vicar, which he was assured of Lord Cowdray's support. He never thought there would be an action for dilapidations.

Judgment was entered for Major Pearson for £120 and costs.

LORD HALDON IN BOX.

Evidence Against Former Employee—Charge of Theft Dismissed.

Thomas H. Potter, a young man whose mother is housekeeper to Lord Haldon, at Boswell-road, Thornton Heath, was charged yesterday at Croydon with stealing a suit of his lordship's clothing.

Lord Haldon said he took Potter in out of kindness, giving him board and lodging in return for odd jobs done. He turned Potter out for insubordination, but the man came back in his absence, and subsequently the suit was missed. Potter told the magistrates that he had to be up at six o'clock in the morning and cook his lordship's breakfast. Then he had to do the housework and cook and serve a five or six course dinner every evening, afterwards clearing everything up.

Lord Haldon, he said, gave him a few shillings and cigarettes now and again. The suit was given to his mother by Lord Haldon and she passed it on to him.

The Bench accepted Potter's story and dismissed the charge.

EARL'S SISTER SHOT.

Hon. Albinia Brodrick Wounded Whilst Cycling in Ireland.

The Hon. Miss Albinia Brodrick, sister of the Earl of Midleton, was shot on Saturday whilst cycling in the Waterville district, South Kerry, between West Cove and Smeem.

Miss Brodrick refused to obey repeated challenges from National troops to halt, and was rather seriously wounded the right leg. Her cycling costume made it difficult to discern her sex. She was taken to hospital in a Red Cross ambulance.

Miss Brodrick, at the Dail discussion on the Treaty, was removed for interfering Finian Lynch, the member for South Kerry, in whose division she resides. De Valera's order suspending the irregular offensive came into force yesterday.

TAX APPEAL FOR TWINS

Judge Decides Rebate Is Not Due for Babies Born After Assessment.

Children born after the date of assessment for income tax do not entitle a married man to rebate in that year.

This was the important decision of Mr. Justice Rowlatt yesterday in an appeal by the Crown against a decision by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue that Mr. Gordon Phillips Voss, a solicitor's managing clerk, was entitled to allowances for twin sons born on July 17, 1921, after the date for assessment, April 6.

NEARING END OF BEAUTY CONTEST.

Eleven Days Left for You to Compete.

RISK IN DELAY.

Photographs Sent Now May Win One of Big Prizes.

As the closing date of The Daily Mirror £2,500 Beauty Competition approaches public interest in the quest for the "beauties of 1923" becomes keener. Never before has a beauty contest so completely captured the imagination of our readers.

Thousands of proud mothers have welcomed the innovation of a section for entrants under five, and particularly the fact that baby boys are eligible to compete in that section. The charming child studies already published are sufficient justification for this departure from the policy of previous beauty contests.

In the senior sections of the competition the entries have easily beaten all records, and it is safe to predict that the winners of these sections will be worthy rivals to the prize beauties of the past.

One distinguished artist has declared that this year's standard of beauty is higher than ever.

VOTING BY READERS.

Only 48 More Photographs To Be Judged After This Week.

Although the end of the contest is near, it is still too early to offer any predictions as to the ultimate winners. Even now they may be hesitating whether to send in their photograph. Last year the winner was one whose photograph arrived with the last rush of entries.

Delay, however, is risky. Everyone will understand that the chances of any one photograph being published are considerably reduced during the closing days of the contest, when photographs are pouring in from all directions in large numbers.

There are prizes to the value of £1,000 awaiting the "beauties of the year," and the advantages accruing to the prizewinners are not limited to the cheques they receive. In many cases success in a Daily Mirror Beauty Contest has opened a new career for our readers.

After this week only two further selections of entrants, each of twenty-four photographs, will be published, and when the votes for these have been counted the way will be clear for the final choice of the prizewinners by our readers.

The closing date for sending in photographs is Friday, May 11. No photograph arriving after the last post on that day will be considered. Those who intend to compete for the big cash prizes have, therefore, very little time to lose. The only safe plan is to post a photograph to-day.

On the back of each photograph must be written in ink the name, age and address of the competitor.

All photographs should be posted to "The Editor, Daily Mirror Beauty Competition, 23-29, Haverley-street, E.C.4."

The voting coupon for this week's beauty competitors is printed on page 19.

SHIPYARD STANDSTILL.

Lock-Out of Boilermakers Forces Many Other Workers To Be Idle.

Shipbuilding and repairing throughout the country are seriously affected by the lock-out of boilermakers which began yesterday. Many yards are at a standstill.

Over 10,000 boilermakers are affected and several thousand trade unionists, who are prepared to accept the employers' terms and who work in conjunction with the boilermakers as assistants, are automatically thrown out of work.

The Boilermakers' Society repudiate the agreement which was reached between the Shipbuilding Employers' Federation and the Engineering and Shipbuilding Trades' Federation.

OTHER NEWS IN BRIEF.

To-day's Weather.—Mainly cloudy; some rain or drizzle; little change of temperature. Lighting-up time, 9.20 p.m.

Mr. Mark Fisher, R.A., died yesterday in St. Bartholomew's Hospital following a seizure in a train.

10,000 Miles by Taxi-Plane.—Mr. Alan Cobham returns to Croydon to-day after a tour of over 10,000 miles by taxi-plane.

Lunatic at Large.—Escaping from Chartham Lunatic Asylum on Saturday, a patient named Saxby was still at large last night.

By his own wish, the late Earl of Carnarvon was buried yesterday at the top of Beacon Hill, only members of the family being present.

£3,500 ransom has been demanded in Hong Kong by the captors of Mr. H. C. Rowson, the kidnapped London man.—Central News.

Blind Poet's Cure.—Taken ill on a voyage to England from South Africa, Mr. Hibbert Gibson, the war-blinded poet, found on recovering consciousness that his sight had returned.

CUP FINAL FIASCO: GOVERNMENT TO HOLD INQUIRY?

Home Secretary to Decide To-morrow After Considering Reports by Police.

STADIUM DIRECTORS DEFEND ARRANGEMENTS

Trouble Attributed to "Crowd Which Was Twice as Large as Expected"—Rationing as Remedy.

It will be decided to-morrow whether the Government shall order a public inquiry into the Cup final debacle at the new Wembley Stadium.

This was announced in the Commons yesterday by the Home Secretary (Mr. Bridgeman), who said he had called for reports from the police authorities. He warmly defended the conduct of the officers who were on duty, remarking that, but for their handling of the situation, it would have been "much more serious."

After a special meeting yesterday of the directors of the British Empire Exhibition to begin an investigation, a statement was issued declaring that the main cause of the trouble was that the crowd was twice as great as was anticipated, and the largest sports arena in the world was inadequate. "Rationing" of accommodation at future finals is being considered.

The victorious Bolton Wanderers received a rapturous civic welcome on their return last night.

INVESTIGATION STARTED M.P.s CALL FOR INQUIRY BY EXHIBITION CHIEFS.

"Police Shared Belief That Plans Were Adequate."

NEW F.A. DISCLAIMER.

Two official statements were issued yesterday concerning responsibility for the Cup final fiasco at the new Wembley Stadium. They are appended:—

British Empire Exhibition.—The Board held a special meeting to receive and consider reports from the Stadium officials concerning the scenes at the Cup final. They are now investigating all the circumstances.

One thing is clear—that the main cause of the trouble was the altogether unexpected size of the crowd. The assembly of people was twice as great as was anticipated by those who have had long experience of Cup-tie crowds.

What were thought to be adequate precautions had been taken to keep order. The police arrangements were regarded as adequate by the police authorities.

"Apart from police controls of the neighbouring roads, there were some 450 foot police and a number of mounted police inside."

"LARGEST IN WORLD" TOO SMALL.

"The plain fact is that the largest sports arena in the world proved inadequate for the largest football crowd ever assembled."

"For the future, means may have to be devised to 'ration' the number of people allowed to travel to the Stadium."

"This is under consideration, as well as the question of what preventable causes, if any, there were for the incidents on Saturday."

Mr. F. J. Wall (secretary of the Football Association).—

"Sir Henry McMahon, the chairman of the Committee of Management of the British Empire Exhibition, is reported to have said, 'The Football Association are responsible for everything inside the Stadium. We were merely responsible for letting it. In the control outside the Stadium we assisted, but everything was done jointly with the Football Association.'"

"That is incorrect. The agreement between the British Empire Exhibition and the Football Association provides, 'The British Empire Exhibition shall provide the staff for the sale of tickets and all necessary ticket checkers, takers and turnstile men and police necessary for the proper and orderly control and management of the ground, stands and seats and the spectators and public, but the Football Association shall provide a sufficient number of stewards to show ticket holders to their seats.'"

"LEFT TO OWN DEVICES."

Criticism of Footballer Accustomed to Marshalling Big Crowds.

"Complete ignorance of the first rules for dealing with big football crowds was the cause of the trouble at the Stadium," a famous footballer, who is conversant with the arrangements adopted at Chelsea, told The Daily Mirror.

"The people," he added, "were left more or less to their own devices. There was no telephone system connecting all parts of the ground with the turnstiles, such as there is at Chelsea."

Operations were necessary on Walter Piggott (forty-five), Libra-road, Old Ford, and Thomas Macgregor (sixty-four), Cloudeston-road, Ilkington, injured at the Stadium and taken to Willesden Hospital, where eight of the twenty-two injured taken there were still detained last night.

M.P.s CALL FOR INQUIRY BY HOME OFFICE.

Arrangements of Authorities Criticised in Commons.

CROWD'S CONDUCT DEFENDED.

There were some lively passages in the Commons yesterday, when the storming of the Stadium was the subject of a series of questions.

Mr. Jack Jones asked if the Home Secretary was prepared to order a public inquiry into the whole of the circumstances.

Mr. Bridgeman replied that he had called for reports, and he asked Mr. Jones to put his question down for to-morrow.

"IMPORTED HOOLIGANISM."

Mr. Mosley: Pending the result of the inquiry, will he say what steps he proposes to take to protect Wembley from the hooliganism of imported crowds and the ineptitude of the amusement authorities of the Exhibition? (Cries of "Oh!" and "Order!")

Mr. Jones: May I say that, as far as the crowds were concerned, they were good-humoured—(cheers)—and if it had not been for the conduct of the police and the good humour of the crowd, there would have been murder.

Mr. Mosley asked the Home Secretary whether he would state the reason for the defective police arrangements which resulted in serious injury to many persons.

"I know of no ground for the suggestion that the police arrangements were defective," replied Mr. Bridgeman, amid cheers.

WARM PRAISE FOR POLICE.

"I very much resent such a suggestion being made, and I agree entirely that if it had not been for the good humour of the crowd and the behaviour of the police something much more serious would have resulted." (Cheers.)

Mr. Roberts: May I ask whether he is aware of the almost universal praise which was expressed at the conduct of the police, especially of the officer who was mounted on a white horse? (Cheers.)

Mr. Bridgeman: Yes, and I hope that that praise will be spread abroad.

The King and the Injured.—The King has been kept informed in regard to the casualties, and has been very much relieved to find that they were considerably less numerous, as well as less serious, than was at first expected.

BOLTON'S CIVIC WELCOME.

Winning Team's Journey to Town Hall Amid Cheering Crowds.

The return home of the Cup-winning Bolton Wanderers last night was the occasion of remarkable scenes in the town.

Thousands of people assembled in the streets to cheer the victorious team, who were escorted to the town hall by bands of the Veterans' Corps and boy scouts.

The mayor and town councillors gave the team a civic reception, the Mayor, Alderman Poole, congratulating the captain, Joe Smith, and expressing the hope that the victory would be the precursor of many such wins.

THEFT OF MINIATURES.

Late last night Scotland Yard issued particulars of a number of valuable antique articles, including miniatures and snuff-boxes, which have been stolen from the premises of Messrs. Harris, Blairman and Sons, of Regent-street.

American Novelist Dead.—Emerson Hough, the writer, died yesterday at his home in Chicago.

Mr. J. H. Cantley (right), probable chairman, and Lord Stanley, a member of the Betting Tax Committee.

RIDDLE OF YOUNG WIFE'S SUDDEN DEATH.

Doctor Suspects Poison as Cause of Illness.

INQUEST TO-DAY.

Suspecting that Annie Cooper, of Broadham Green, Oxted (Surrey), died from an irritant poison, Dr. Cortes has reported the circumstances to the police.

The East Surrey coroner is holding an inquest to-day.

Mrs. Cooper, who was thirty-two, was the wife of George Cooper, a gardener.

On Wednesday she appeared to be in her usual good health, but after her mid-day meal she was suddenly taken ill. She died on Saturday.

Commons Rejects Proposed Separate Housing Bill for Scotland.

Defending in the Commons last night the proposed housing flat rate subsidy of £6, Mr. N. Chamberlain said in its absence the central authority would have to exercise minute control over every item of expenditure, engage an army of officials, and draw up rules and regulations under which every local authority would be controlled.

It was preposterous to suggest they should examine the rates of every locality and if they were too high increase the subsidy.

The debate arose on an amendment by Captain Wedgwood Benn to leave Scotland out of the Bill. Mr. Duncan Millar said he was advised by an expert that the Scottish subsidy should be £12 annually for twenty years.

Captain Elliot, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of Health for Scotland, replied that England was carrying her own financial burdens, and had no right to be asked to bear part of Scotland's share. The amendment was defeated by 247 to 130.

Mr. Watts Morgan declared that the Bill in its present form would be a dead letter in Wales.

A further amendment by Mr. Harris, designed "to obtain adequate assistance, especially for London," was lost by 228 to 97, and the financial resolution was agreed to.

BETS TAX COMMITTEE.

Eighteen Members, with Mr. H. S. Cantley as Probable Chairman.

With Mr. H. S. Cantley, K.C., probably as chairman, the following will comprise the Select Committee appointed by the Government to inquire into the proposed betting tax:—

Conservatives (11).—Sir Leonard Brassey, Sir Alfred Butt, Mr. Forrester-Walker, Sir George Hamilton, Mr. Collingwood Hughes, Mr. Rawlinson, K.C., Mr. Renoult, Sir Berkeley Sheffield, Lord Stanley and Mr. Gershorn Stewart.

Labour (4).—Mr. Morgan Jones, Mr. W. Graham, Mr. C. H. Wilson and Mr. D. R. Grenfell.

Independent Liberals (2).—Mr. Isaac Foot and Mr. Lyle Samuel.

National Liberals.—Sir Beddoe Rees and Sir Henry Norman.

Terms of reference are: "To consider the question of imposing a duty on betting and to report whether such a duty is desirable and practicable."

DOG-WHIPPED WIFE.

Decree Against Blind Ex Officer Who Married in Secret.

When a decree nisi was granted yesterday to Mrs. Helen Cynthia Donovan, of Culross-street, W., against her husband, Edme Donovan, she stated that they were married secretly in September, 1917, he being an ex-naval officer, who was blinded in the war. In 1918 there was another marriage at St. Andrew's, Westminster. She frequently had to complain of his intemperate habits. On two occasions he struck her with a dog whip. It was proved that Mr. Donovan had stayed with another woman at the Savoy Hotel.

FRANCE READY WITH TROOPS FOR SYRIA.

General Pelle on Effect of Turkish Action.

MOVE OF PRECAUTION.

Lausanne Excitement Over Reinforcements Talk.

Tension seems to be increasing between the French and the Turks at Lausanne.

According to Paris messages, the French have decided to send reinforcements to Syria with General Weygand in command, owing to reports that the Turks are massing troops on the Syrian frontier.

On the other hand, a French semi-official statement quoted by Reuter says the French Government will not hesitate to send necessary reinforcements to Syria if its military advisers consider the attitude of the Turks demands it, but the assumption in some quarters that it has already been decided to dispatch two colonial divisions is premature.

The Matin (quoted by the Exchange) states that the French Government is taking simply a measure of precaution, which is in no way an aggression.

General Pelle told the Matin that Ismet Pasha seems desirous of coming to an understanding. Unfortunately the feeling in Angora seems less satisfactory.

In an interview at Lausanne General Pelle said that although the concentration of Turkish troops on the Syrian frontier had not had any effect on the Conference, he must admit that it had created everywhere the worst possible impression.

The greatest excitement prevailed in the Turkish quarter at Lausanne when news from Paris announced that the French propose sending reinforcements to the Syrian frontier.

NEW GERMAN NOTE.

Government Receives Reparations Offer Rejected by Premiers.

Mr. R. McNeill stated in the House of Commons yesterday that the Government had received a proposal from the German Government for the settlement of the reparations question.

This proposal, however, was considered and rejected by the Conference of Prime Ministers held in London in December.

Poincaré took the first step to prepare himself to meet the new German offer yesterday, when he met M. Barthou, chairman of the Reparations Commission.

While the Quai d'Orsay believes that the German proposals are not meant seriously as an effort to settle the question, the mere sending of them is regarded as an important step forward, showing that the Germans have found it necessary to change their tactics.

"WIPE OUT PARIS" THREAT.

Tale of New Explosive—Berlin Editor's "Ultimatum" to Allies.

PARIS, Monday. La Liberté declares that a German chemist has invented a new explosive, small quantities of which would be capable of blowing up mountains like the Alps or an island of the size of Britain.

Having assumed himself of the possession of this explosive, Herr Kurth Wahlmann, editor-in-chief of the Extrablatt, has handed to the French Ambassador in Berlin an "ultimatum" to the effect that unless French troops are withdrawn from the Ruhr within six weeks Paris will be wiped from the face of the earth.

A similar threat has been sent to the Belgian Government regarding Brussels.—Exchange.

NO HOPE FOR LOST BOAT.

Fear That Thirteen People from the Mossamedes Were Drowned.

CAPETOWN, Monday.

It is practically certain that the missing boat of the Mossamedes, containing ten to thirteen passengers and crew, including the two missing Englishmen, Mr. Spring and Mr. Lane, has been lost.

A man was seen in the bows signalling frantically, but unintelligibly. The boat was then hidden from view by a big wave and was not afterwards seen.—Reuter.

LIBERALS URGE LEADERS TO UNITE.

Gloucester Liberals, through Lord Beauchamp, have forwarded a resolution urging Mr. Asquith and Mr. Lloyd George to take immediate steps "to amalgamate all Liberal organisations and thus secure single direction for the party in Parliament and out of it."

AND BENEFITED
99 OUT OF EVERY 100
CASES TREATED.

"TRUTH'S" HISTORIC CERTIFICATE

Following on the now famous pronouncement of Truth—

"We find that the Sandow Treatment has completely achieved the object for which it was undertaken in no fewer than 94 per cent. of cases, and satisfactory improvement was produced in over 99 per cent. of cases."

The Editor has written the following letter to Mr. Sandow—

"October 14th, 1921.
"In view of former recommendations in 'Truth' of your system of physical exercises, I have acceded to your request that my representative should verify more recent statements of patients of which you propose to make use. I have now the pleasure of informing you that we are perfectly satisfied of the genuineness and significance of these testimonials."

ARE you seeking health? Ardently wishing to be well, but unable to throw off the trouble which has assailed the citadel of your well-being?

If so, I have good news for you and a valuable offer to make you.

Sure Way to Perfect Health.

I am a simple missioner of Nature, and I show you how you can, at small cost, in time or money, compel Nature to assert herself and overcome your trouble permanently.

A common sense cure based upon sound natural laws is what I have to offer you—and the truth of what I tell you is vouched for by overwhelming outside confirmation, such as that afforded by the critical "Truth" investigation, the endorsement of some hundreds of the most distinguished medical men of our time; and thousands upon thousands of patients, from Kings to Labouring Men, whom it has been my honour and pleasure to treat in the last 25 years, at my Institute at 32, St. James' Street, London, and by correspondence to their own homes in every corner in the world.

How my system has preserved that health, strength, and vigour, you may judge for yourself by a glance at the photographs of myself at 25 and 55 years of age on this page.

NEURASTHENIA.

The terrible sufferings of neurasthenic patients are known only to themselves and those who, like myself, are in daily contact with them. This book has pointed the way to a cure to over 40,000 sufferers. Write for it to-day. It is the first step for you to take.

Case No. C 20455, Rev. F., aged 81.

I am now in splendid health. Feel strong and vigorous, walk miles daily. My heartfelt gratitude to "Sandow" that it is so. The exercises seem a part of my daily life, and I delight in them. People keep telling me how smartly I walk. I say, "Yes, it is Sandow who gives me strength to do so."

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.

This book shows every sufferer how the causes and depressing symptoms can be overcome and a perfectly healthy digestion ensured.

Case No. BB 263, Gentleman, aged 35.

You have done wonders for me; my appetite and digestion are everything I could wish for.

Case No. A 3276, Miss E. H., aged 47.

I am pleased to say my digestion has improved tremendously. I hardly recognise it as mine, for I can eat practically anything now without ill-effects.

LIVER TROUBLES.

Sufferers from any form of liver trouble will find in this book how to secure relief and cure in the Sandow method of treatment by natural and simple movements as the following (and thousands upon thousands of others) have done.

Case No. A 22329, Mr. A. E. R., aged 25.

I am now feeling not merely my old self, but far better than I was even before I had congestion of the liver. I feel very grateful to have escaped from the miserable existence which was my portion before I sought your advice; and I know I shall always consider my "going to Sandow" the best day's work I ever did.

CONSTIPATION.

Medicine will not cure constipation. Natural means must be employed, and this volume explains how you can cure yourself of this troublesome complaint.

Case No. A 24611, Mr. J. B., aged 68.

AT 55 YEARS

I welcome seekers after health who call at my Institute, at 32, St. James' Street, London, S.W., any day between 11 and 1.30 or 3.30 and 5.30 (Saturdays 11 to 1), and will with pleasure consider and advise upon their cases without fee or obligation. Those who cannot call may write me fully and I will advise by letter in any place in the world. I have cured patients in the most remote parts.

the board; it's surprising how regularly my bowels have worked since coming under your care.

Case No. A 23255, Miss N. A., aged 30.

Thanks to your treatment, the constipation I was suffering from has entirely disappeared.

Case No. A 26533, Doctor, S. C., aged 49.

Doctor's Testimony.

I showed my Doctor your prescription of exercises and he said they would do me more good than any medicine he could supply, and said he noticed a great improvement in my appearance and general carriage.

OBESITY.

The Sandow system of curative physical movements is the best, safest, and speediest method of overcoming obesity, whether local or general, and this book explains fully the "how" and "why."

Case No. 11927, Mrs. H. E., aged 40.

I have now lost 3 stone in weight. Exercise is becoming a pleasure to me, and I feel remarkably well.

Case No. BB, Gentleman, aged 41.

I feel like a new man and five years younger; lost 1 stone in two months, which is most satisfactory; bloated feelings gone altogether.

RHEUMATISM AND GOUT.

These ailments may correctly be designated allied complaints. Briefly, the chief symptom of both is your system on my general health is simply wonderful.

Case No. A 29340, Mrs. H., aged 55.

It is with much gratitude that I can really say you have cured me of my complaint. I walk straight, no limping, and I have enjoyed myself this year more than I have done for the past 20 years.

LACK OF VIGOUR.

My system of natural health culture and physical exercise, described in this book, is, I am confident, the only method of treatment which can claim to have been really successful in these cases.

Case No. BB 604, Gentleman, aged 50.

I am greatly pleased to say I feel a new man.

Case No. BB 694, Gentleman, aged 37.

I cannot tell you how much I have benefited from the exercises; I am now in perfect condition.

ANÆMIA.

If you are Anæmic you should write for free copy to-day.

Case No. A 23753, Mr. H.

The anæmia is now a thing of the past. General health very greatly improved.

Case No. A 23465, Miss V. F., aged 23.

Altogether I feel better in every way than I have done for years, and all my friends remark how much better I am looking.

LUNG AND CHEST COMPLAINTS.

Phthisis, in its early stages, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Influenza, Hay Fever and kindred complaints can be successfully arrested and overcome by the method employed in the Sandow Treatment.

Case No. AD 22935.

Your exercises seem to be working wonders with my lungs and chest, and are no doubt fortifying me against the rigours of an English winter.

Case No. AD 24112.

My chest has now improved wonderfully, causing my Doctor to remark on my changed appearance.

INSOMNIA.

Delay is, of course, to be most avoided. I would, therefore, advise immediate application for this book. It explains the cure, which succeeds even when other remedies have been tried without success.

Case No. A 31837, Mrs. R. H. C., aged 42.

I sleep quite well. Oh, the pleasure of going to bed and to know you are going to sleep, only those that have suffered can understand.

Case No. A 24445, Mr. A. W., aged 24.

No more sleepless nights. Now when I wake in the morning I feel quite refreshed after my sleep.

HEART AFFECTIONS.

The treatment described is not gymnastic in any sense, but is gentle and graduated in its nature, and most enjoyable to undergo.

Case No. 32023, Mr. H. B., aged 33, writes—

"The Specialist says: Heart is wonderfully improved; only one thing it needs, not medicine, but exercise."

Case No. A 31961, Miss M. E. R., aged 34.

Heart Condition Very Much Better.

The exercises have helped me enormously—the heart condition is very much better.

EXPLANATIONS.

THERE is a ring of "benevolent impotence" about the explanations now audible from the authorities at Wembley.

The exhibition management accounts for the storming of the Stadium by saying that no one anticipated so large a crowd.

Evidently the Stadium authorities did not!

But perhaps other people have given up "anticipating" any limit to crowds at sensational football matches. And while this limit remains unfixed, and numbers obviously increase with every year, it would be advisable to test the force of the invasion by inquiry beforehand of the principal traffic and tourist agencies.

If on the other hand nobody can tell whether eight million, instead of eighty thousand, may be going to a big match, then it simply means (what we said in this column yesterday) that the pleasant days of taking such risks are over, and seats will have to be allotted by ballot—with no standing room over. The alternative is a scramble for entrance and the possibility of a grave disaster.

Meanwhile, the managing director of Wembley Park Amusements is reported as saying, in a jovial spirit, that the "demonstration"—another euphemism for hundreds of accidents—"has proved beyond question the accessibility of Wembley."

Undoubtedly it has! But the breaking of Waterloo Bridge would prove, in the same way, the accessibility of the river to traffic that happened to be passing above it. Unfortunately that, as one of the doctors says in Mr. Shaw's play, would "hardly be what they intended" who built the bridge. And accessibility of this too precipitous sort would hardly commend itself to the traffic, either! The suicidal impulse is not yet so strong as to prompt people to get to places dead, if they cannot reach them alive.

Pleasant jokes and genial reassurances of the kind recited must not blind us to the need for a much more adequate system for turning off the tap of traffic before the floods mount.

It may have to be done, we repeat, by preventing the surplus crowd, not only from reaching the ground, but even from getting to London with that intention. Once within sight of the battlefield, the Britisher will push on. It is his way. And if he's come all the way from Manchester we can hardly blame him for his persistence.

"I FORGIVE HIM."

A MAN condemned to ten years' penal servitude, for violently attacking with a flatiron the girl he loved, yesterday appealed for reduction of sentence; on the ground, apparently, that she had since forgiven him, and even said that she was prepared to take half the blame.

We are not surprised that the argument seemed irrelevant to the legal mind and that the appeal therefore failed.

Women, once in the mood for it, will forgive anything—fisticuffs or flatirons. We can hardly measure the offence by the extent of the infatuation that pardons it. At least, legally we cannot.

For, if we did, it would always be open to the murderer to explain that his victim rather liked being killed, and to produce evidence that she explained, with her last breath, that she'd brought it on herself.

"CUP FINAL CHAOS."

NEED we blame anybody for the Wembley fiasco?

The F.A. and the Stadium authorities honestly believed there would be room enough for everyone. No one could possibly imagine that there would be about 300,000 spectators. Undoubtedly the arrangements were not perfect, but this is comprehensible when one considers the fact that this was the first time the Stadium had ever been used.

ONE IN THE CROWD.

SHEEP-LIKE CROWDS.

THOSE who pushed their way through the gates in their endeavour to see the Cup final reminded me of a herd of sheep being driven to market.

We are all very sheep-like. Observe a small crowd in the street. What do we see? We

A LOVER'S MODESTY.

REALLY "Susceptible Young Man" must be an unusual sort of lover!

He says in your correspondence columns that it would be "dreadful if all our friends knew we were in love."

Now, my experience of most lovers is that they don't in the least care who knows it. Observe them in the streets—say on a Sunday evening. They don't care who sees them tenderly embracing. In fact, they seem to court publicity! "Susceptible Young Man" is evidently also an exceptional youth! AMUSED.

CAN THEY LAUGH?

I'LL have a word with your correspondent who proclaims we Americans cannot swallow the laugh when it's on ourselves.

gradually see it growing into an immense one—composed of people who just stand round looking dreadfully silly, not knowing what is wrong, or why they are standing there.

On these occasions I expect vast crowds, so stay away, and feel content to see the whole thing in comfort in a cosy seat at my favourite cinema a day or two later. M. W.

Slahope-gardens.

THE HUMAN TIDE.

PERHAPS it isn't fair to blame the crowd at Wembley for the scenes that took place. As Sir Sidney Low points out in your columns to-day, it was quite impossible to retreat.

Many of us did not want to "push on." We were pushed. Once caught in the tide it was hopeless to try to swim out of it. And it seemed that the only thing to do was to try to get into the ground and there find a haven after a really alarming storm!

I am thankful that I escaped so easily as I did. BADLY BRUISED.

HOW THE BOY SCOUTS HELPED.

AS a spectator at Wembley, may I express my deep admiration for the way the boy scouts who were there helped the ambulance men in dealing with the injured?

These youngsters worked like Trojans, and were quite unable to see much of the actual game.

They deserve the grateful thanks of the multitude. Q. M. S.

laughter was fifty-fifty, and plenty of it.

What's more, I'll tell the world—and I'll mean it—that what the Anglo-Saxon races want is to know more of each other. The more plays which introduce Uncle Sam to Johnnie Bull the better for the Anglo-American Entente—the only natural entente. And the better it is for the Anglo-American Entente the better it is for the future of this old globe. HENRY HARRISON.

"DON'T LEND BOOKS!"

THOSE who lend books have only themselves to blame if they lose them.

It is notorious that few people ever trouble to return a book. A thousand essays have been written on the subject. The book-lover who lends his treasures, then, cannot have read them or he would know more about the habits of book borrowers! A BOOK COLLECTOR.

IN MY GARDEN.

APRIL 30.—Vegetable marrows are quite easy to raise without artificial heat. Fill some five pots with light sandy soil and set two or three seeds in each. The pots must be placed in a cold frame or house, keeping them close until germination has taken place. Later on thin out the seedlings.

Vegetable marrows may be planted out during the first half of June on sunny mounds of rich material; they also do quite well on level ground, providing the soil has been mixed with plenty of manure, leaf-mould and decayed vegetable matter. E. F. T.

HOW MEN FOLLOW NEW FASHIONS.

THEIR CRAZE FOR CHANGE IN FACIAL ADORNMENT.

By EDWIN PUGH.

MAY I once more revert to The Daily Mirror Fashion Fair at Holland Park Hall?

During several visits I have noted that it is a common complaint among men that women are never satisfied with the prevailing mode. They must be forever changing from one fashion to another.

Hats, gowns, wraps, furs, shoes, stockings, gloves, and everything else appertaining unto them, even their cigarettes, their pets and their powder-puffs, must always be different from the style of a month ago.

"Why don't they take example from us: find out what suits them, get a thorough good outfit of well-made, decent-looking garments available for every possible occasion and emergency, and stick to that?" asked a young man of me the other day. "They're so fickle. They never know their own minds. Fact is, it's just a follow-my-leader business..."

I made the usual sounds indicative of polite assent. But really I was giving my young friend only half my attention. What interested me most about him was that tiny little bit of side-whisker he was cultivating.

I have noticed that quite a lot of young men are cultivating that bit of side-whisker just now. (Are they modelling themselves on the matadors of the movies or on stage footmen?)

Only a few months ago they were cultivating a sort of fallen eyebrow on the upper lip. Just before then it was the O.T.C., or diarsis, moustache. And before that it was the thing to be clean-shaven.

WHAT I REMEMBER.

And going still further back, I recall a sort of theatrical costumier's riot of hirsute adornments: the heavy dragon, the walrus, the Mephistophelean, the toothbrush, and the egg-stain varieties of moustache; the shave-all-or-none era, and the mutton-chop and side-board eras. I recall also the chin-fringe era, the shaven upper lip and stiff full beard.

There was also the Dickens beard, the Prince Imperial combination, the goatee, the Vandyke cult, and—oh, a dozen others!

And right away in my early childhood I was tickled to death by Piccadilly weepers.

And men have been just as erratic and fickle about the hair of their heads. I need not go back to the flowing curls of Charles I., or the days when men shaved their polls and wore wigs. And the priestly tonsure hardly counts, I suppose.

But in a bewilderingly short while men have worn ear-locks, have hobbled their hair, cut it to the bone, worn it short behind and long in front, long behind and short in front, and shaved it off the nape of the neck. Some of them seem now to be affecting a sort of chrysanthemum or Pomeranian arrangement:

It is true that, except in a few minor details, men's fashions in clothes change very little from year to year. But their hair, both facial and cranial, undergoes swifter and more drastic changes in a few short months than women's clothes have undergone in as many centuries.

Which rather suggests the reflection that whilst women look upon Dame Fashion as Beauty's handmaiden, men would seem to regard her as Beauty's lady barber.

Spring Cleaning will be much easier this year

Let Dosol help you, and this year's spring-clean will be much lighter and brighter than last year's. Distempered walls, white enamel, tiles, paint-work—all are best cleaned with Dosol, and you will be able to clean and polish your windows and mirrors without scratching them. Rapidity is one of its virtues, efficiency another; moreover, it does away with the need for hard rubbing.

Before you start spring-cleaning, take advantage of our special offer and give Dosol a test. Send us three penny stamps (to cover part of the cost of postage and packing), and we will send you a generous trial canister absolutely free. The very first use on one of your white enamelled doors, a distempered wall, or some tile work, will convince you that Dosol is one of those things no housewife can afford to be without. Not only at spring-cleaning time but all through the year, Dosol will serve you well in every room in the house. Address your letter to "Dosol," Wm. Gossage & Sons, Ltd., Widnes.

THE ROYAL COUPLE.

Amateur Art Society—Table Tennis Finals—Modern Girl's Spelling.

THE DUCHESSES OF SUTHERLAND will be among the season's hostesses as usual, and she is contemplating, I hear, giving a royal ball at Hampden House, Green-street, for the Duke and Duchess of York. Her Grace of Sutherland is an experienced hostess, and Hampden House, formerly the Abercrombie town mansion, is admirable for entertaining. Of course, the Duchess' ball will be only one of several such affairs which will be arranged for the Duke and his bride.

Great Friends.

The Duke of York is a great friend of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, who have seen a good deal of him on his numerous visits to Mrs. Ronald Greville at Polesden Lacey, which is not far from the Sutherland seat, Sutton Place, near Guildford. The two dukes often shoot together, and for the Duchess of Sutherland's grand ball last July at Sutton Place the Duke of York was one of the house party.

Lord Queenborough's Daughters.

Lord Queenborough has become a grandfather for the second time, as his elder daughter, the Hon. Mrs. Charles Winn, has just had another little girl. Lord Queenborough is one of the Pagets, and as Almeric Paget sat in the House of Commons for some time. His first wife, who died in 1916, was the daughter of the Hon. W. C. Whitney and his present wife is also an American. His younger daughter, the Hon. Dorothy Paget is coming out this season.

The Peace Preserved.

A possibility of friction is removed by the announcement that Herr Gerhart Hauptmann is unable to accept the invitation to the banquet which the P.E.N. Club has arranged to give to distinguished foreign authors. As he was one of the '93 intellectuals' who signed the famous manifesto denying that the German Army had perpetrated any atrocities whatever in Belgium, there might certainly have been a vivacious argument if he and any Belgian man of letters had been seated next to each other.

America's Rag-Time King.

Mr. Irving Berlin, who is staying for six weeks at the Carlton Hotel, tells me he will crowd as much work into his visit as possible. He is much occupied with the music for the forthcoming production in London of the revue 'The Music Box.' He tells me he is on the watch while over here for talent for the new edition of 'The Music Box' in New York. He has himself composed a good many new numbers for it already.

Amateur Art.

The Royal Amateur Art Society, whose annual exhibition was opened yesterday by Princess Mary Viscountess Lascelles, is notable for modesty on the part of the exhibitors. There is no catalogue, and one often asks in vain for the names of those who have painted the pictures. For the critic the loan section has most interest. The King usually lends some of the treasures from Windsor Castle.

From the King.

His Majesty this year has sent a number of portraits, some in pencil and others in graphite (technically known as plum-bago drawings). They range in date from the Stuart period, and include portraits by Worlidge of Colley and Theophilus Cibber, by Richardson of Pope and Milton, and by Robins of Peg Woffington. This loan section has been arranged by the Hon. Sybil Leigh and the Dowager Marchioness of Bristol.

Hon. Sybil Leigh.

TO-DAY'S GOSSIP

News and Views About Men, Women and Affairs in General

The Prince in Belgium.

The Prince of Wales is receiving a splendid welcome in Belgium. The Belgians see in him a "first-class fighting man" who, like their own king, was happy under fire and in the front line trenches. A soldier once explained to me one of the reasons of the Prince of Wales' popularity during the war: "He didn't always offer you a cigarette; sometimes he would ask you for one."

Lansdowne House "Agony."

From a notice in the agony columns of The Times it would appear that there was some confusion in the cloakrooms at the Lansdowne House ball, but it was not apparent to most people. The guests left their things in marquees erected on each side of the front door. This was exactly how things were done in the days when Lord and Lady Lansdowne entertained on the grand scale, as there are no suitable rooms available for this purpose on the ground floors.

Princes as Schoolmasters.

Prince Max of Baden, who is said to have started a boarding-school, is not the first royal personage to become a schoolmaster when down in the world. Louis Philippe taught mathematics at a school in Switzerland during the early years which the French Revolution compelled him to spend in exile.

Hard-Worked Actresses.

Miss Norah Blaney was telling me yesterday how hard the successful stage artist has to work nowadays. She and her partner, Miss Gwen Farrer, in addition to "starring" at the Vaudeville in "Rats," are appearing twice daily at the Coliseum and also at Golders Green Hippodrome. This does not leave much time for lounging about, particularly if there is a matinee at the Vaudeville.

Miss Norah Blaney.

How Things Happen.

These successful entertainers first met under peculiar circumstances. Miss Blaney was a member of a concert party which went to France during the war to entertain troops. At the last minute the violinist selected could not go, and Miss Farrer, who at that time was living with her mother, Lady Farrer, volunteered to go. She thus met Miss Blaney, and the sequel was their now famous partnership.

"Select" Dance.

The dance which Lord and Lady Derby gave for their niece, Miss Gathorne Hardy, was extremely select. Lady Derby is one of the few hostesses who have not moved with the times in inviting "all and sundry" to their entertainments. She confines her invitations to her personal friends and their children.

Everybody's House!

As Lady Tredegar is without a habitable town house owing to the recent fire at her residence in Upper Grosvenor-street, she has taken Lord Cable's in Grosvenor-square for a few months. This house is the one to which the late Duchess of Devonshire moved when the present Duke came to live at Devonshire House on succeeding to his uncle's title and estates. Before Lord Cable bought it it had been let furnished to Lady Cunard, who rented it from Lord Charles Montagu.

Barnum's Life.

The American publisher, in announcing a biography by M. R. Werner, of Barnum, the world-famous American showman, describes Barnum as the man who "made the circus, introduced Jenny Lind, exploited Jumbo, discovered Tom Thumb, advertised like blazes, wrote a best seller" and "travelled all over." When Matthew Arnold was lecturing in the States Barnum wrote to invite him to Bridgeport. "You and I, Mr. Arnold," the invitation read, "ought to be acquainted. You are a celebrity, I am a notoriety."

"Old Drury."

"Ned Keat of Old Drury" is due at Drury Lane next week. The phrase, "Old Drury," by the way, seems to have a fascination for certain dramatists. About twenty years ago a play was produced at the Haymarket, entitled "Sweet Nell of Old Drury." It, too, had for principal character a star of the London stage—one Nell Gwynne.

Soldier Prince.

To-day is the seventy-third birthday of the Duke of Connaught, the sole surviving son of Queen Victoria. The Duke, who was educated for the Army and entered the Engineers in 1868, has seen most active service, and during the Egyptian War he commanded the Brigade of Guards. He received his Field-Marshal's baton in 1902.

Supporters of Table Tennis.

The opening of the finals of The Daily Mirror All-British Table Tennis Championships to-day reminds me that the game is extremely fortunate in its friends. It not only has Mr. Austin F. Carris, a wealthy director of many companies, as its philanthropist and guiding spirit, but many other important business men are always ready to help on the sport. One of them, Mr. A. H. Williams, a well-known figure in West End business circles, officiates to-day and to-morrow as referee.

A Live Editor.

Mr. H. W. Massingham's retirement from the editorship of The Nation and Athenaeum is now an accomplished fact. It is not necessary to share all his opinions in order to regret his disappearance from weekly journalism, or to hope that his disappearance will not be permanent. He was a live editor, and one could always admire his advocacy while disputing his propositions.

Like Her Mother.

I hear that Mrs. Frank Curzon and her baby daughter are both going on well. She has already one little girl, Maureen, by her first husband, Captain Dunville. Mrs. Curzon is Lady Jane Combe's eldest daughter, and bears a strong resemblance to her good-looking mother.

Lady Cynthia Mosley's Parties.

Lady Cynthia Mosley and her husband are entertaining small week-end parties at their little place in Kent, which is most original in construction. Lady Irene Curzon has been down with her sister lately, but will be in her London house for the season.

Miss Dorothy Brandon, whose play, 'The Outsider,' was produced at Folkestone last night.

Miss M. A. Gibbs, of Barrow Court, Somerset, to marry Major W. C. Tremayne Miles, M.C., of Didmarton.

An Engagement.

Lord and Lady Kingston's elder daughter Sheelah has just become engaged to a young naval officer, Lieutenant T. C. Greenway. Lady Sheelah is a typical Irish beauty, and has one surviving sister with the pretty name of Bridget and one brother, Lord Kingsborough, who was wounded in the war and had to retire last year from the Scots Greys owing to ill-health. The King family have been in Ireland since Elizabeth's time.

The New Spelling.

I have before me a cheery letter written by a girl of sixteen who is being educated at one of our most elaborate and expensive schools. She says that on returning to school after the holidays she is suffering from bordam. She has an incling that her luggage has been left behind. She refers to chavaliers who are gultently coming to my rescue. Is there no one at that great school who will come to the rescue of the King's English!

A Gentleman Policeman.

Mr. R. W. Campbell, of "Spud Tamson" fame, is about to publish another book under the title "A Policeman from Eton." Mr. Campbell, who is well acquainted with life on the prairie farms, promises some exciting tales, told in the form of a diary of a trooper of the Royal North-West Mounted Police.

Child Story.

"Mummy, what's the palsy?" "Oh, it's a disease, darling, that makes you shake all the time." "No wonder the poor man was sick of it!"

LOST ALL HER HAIR

Few women have had such a terrible experience as Miss Little did; but many suffer in a lesser degree, and they will be glad to hear the good news her message has for them. "What Kotalko has done for me is nothing short of wonderful. Four years ago I lost all my hair. My head was bare and shiny just like the back of my hand. I had been under a hair specialist and a doctor, but all in vain."

"I decided to try Kotalko, and I am simply delighted that I did so, for I now have a head of beautiful, curly, silk-like hair, which is admired by everyone. Kotalko has certainly proved itself a true hair-grower." (Signed) MARY LITTLE."

HAIR-GROWING DISCOVERY

Many who were completely bald have grown a full crop of beautiful hair by using the method employed by North American Indians. This is composed of genuine bear fat with the juice of the rare pilocarpus plant.

The preparation, known as Kotalko, may be obtained by sending sixpence stamps or P.O. for trial size, to John Hart Britain Ltd., 2, Percy Street (16 D.S.), London, W.1. Marvelous and speedy growth of hair has been reported, even when baldness has existed for years.

Get your Nerves Right!

Two out of every three people suffer from Nerve Troubles and it's impossible to enjoy life if the nerves are out of order.

If your nerves are fit, you feel fit in every way, for weak nerves affect your whole organism. They are the cause of that easily-fatigued, run-down, out-of-tone condition which ninety-nine out of every hundred experience at some time or another. Weak nerves lead to indigestion and sleeplessness. They are often the secret of pale, unhealthy complexions, loss of appetite, and the anemic condition that arise from lack of nutrition.

Get your nerves right. Get the real nerve restorative—Dr. Cassell's Tablets. They will brace you up. You'll feel twice as efficient, physically and mentally, after a week's course of Dr. Cassell's. They'll help you to ward off the symptoms of age if you are old, and to build up a strong, healthy constitution if you are young. PIP, SQUEAK AND WILFRED

A Happy Family of Pets Whose Comical Adventures Are Famous Throughout the World

"LET'S GO A-MAYING!"

Daily Mirror Office.

MY DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS,—

"Merry" May arrived this morning, and—if we followed the fashion of our grandmothers—we should all be up very early to-day, singing and dancing through the woods and meadows, picking wild flowers and throwing the blossoms into our neighbours' houses. We should spend all day "a-Maying," dancing round and round the May-pole and having a jolly good time. In these days, however, May Day passes almost unnoticed. I wonder why it is?

Certainly I cannot picture myself getting up very early this morning and going out "a-Maying." I shouldn't know quite what I had to do, to start with! Should I have to pick bunches of flowers and sing and dance at the same time? It wouldn't be so bad if a party of young people were all "a-Maying" together, but—just think how silly you would feel if you were doing it all by yourself!

I expect the sheep and the lambs and the cows would look on at me in silent astonishment, wondering what strange, silly mortal had suddenly come upon them!

No; I shall not go "a-Maying" this morning; but, all the same, I am sorry these old-fashioned customs are dying out. In several country villages, I believe, they still elect a May Queen—the prettiest and nicest girl being chosen for this honour.

This is an important month from our point of view. Pip and Squeak celebrate their birthday on May 12, while I, too, have a birthday. No; I am not going to tell you how old I shall be!

Your affectionate
Uncle Dick.

WEDDING BELLS.

An Interesting Event in the Land of Flowers.

SOME time ago I told you about a wedding in Birdland. Lately I have heard of an interesting little event in the Land of Flowers; in fact, all the Housebells have been ringing with it.

The marriage was between Rhoda Dendron and Sweet William, and they were married by the Rev. John Quill (jonquil). People came in Phlox (flocks) to the wedding, and all the Canterbury Bells were ringing merrily.

Rhoda was carrying a bouquet of Bride's Blossom, and the bridegroom wore a Bachelor's Button for the last time.

The bridesmaids were Rose, Violet, Lily and Daisy, and the best man was Chris Anthemion. He wore his Foxgloves, and carried a Red-Hot Poker under his arm to keep the crowd back!

The bride's father—the Dusty Miller—gave her away; they wished the couple Speedwell, and some wag tied a Lady's Slipper to the carriage.

At the wedding breakfast they drank Buttercup, and some old lady was heard to say the bride meant to marry gold (Marigold). But that was only her London Pride.

On their honeymoon the couple got caught in a fog. Then it was Love-in-a-Mist, and, owing to the extreme cold, the bride was rather a "blue belle."

ROSE'S RASH RIDE.

(Here is another story—all in R's. See if you can say it very quickly.)

Rose Robinson rode rapidly round Rotten Row repeatedly rousing rash revellers. Rose's romantic roan raced roaring roadsters, refusing Robert's raised right. (N.B.—Robert is a policeman.)

Robert, raging, rained reproaches, running rearwards. Rose reached raging river. Roan reared—Rose reeled—reached river, roaring: "Rescue! Rescue!"

Robert rowed recklessly right round river, rescuing Rose. Rash Rose—romantic Robert!

SQUEAK FALLS OVER COALS AS MABEL ARRIVES!

1. Whenever Mabel comes to tea Squeak always gives Pip and Wilfred a special "tidy-up."

2. After she had curled Wilfred's whiskers she started combing Pip's coat. "Wow! You tickle!"

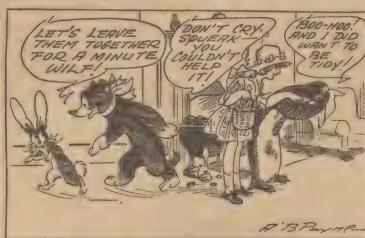

3. When they were both nice and clean Squeak told them to sit quiet and not move.

4. Poor Squeak, however, did not notice the coal-scuttle, and she fell right on top of it!

5. Her white "shirt-front" was covered in coal-dust! And at that moment Mabel arrived!

6. Poor Squeak felt so disgraced that she couldn't help crying. Mabel, however, soon cheered her up.

Avoid Harmful Grit

Pepsodent curdles the film and removes it without harmful scouring. Its polishing agent is far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Watch the Man

See the changes one week brings

Millions of women know this new way of teeth cleaning. And the pretty teeth seen everywhere now show what it means to them.

If the man doesn't use it, get this 10-Day Tube for him. Then watch the results. See what changes will come in a week.

That dingy film

Most people who brush teeth in old ways have film-coated teeth. A viscous film clings to the teeth, enters crevices and stays there. That film becomes discoloured, particularly with men who smoke. Then it forms dingy coats. Tartar is based on film.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth and the acid may cause decay.

No old-type tooth paste can effectively fight film. So all these troubles were constantly increasing, and beautiful teeth were seen less often than to-day.

New discoveries

Dental science, after long research, has found two ways to fight that film. One acts to curdle it, one to remove it, and without any harmful scouring.

Many careful tests proved these methods efficient. Then authorities endorsed them, and dentists everywhere began to advise their use.

A new-type tooth paste was created, based on modern research. The name is Pepsodent. Then these two great film combatants were embodied in it for daily application.

Not film alone

But Pepsodent brings other great results which research proves essential. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to constantly neutralize the acids which may cause decay.

It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

Those are Nature's great tooth-protecting forces in the mouth. Every use of Pepsodent gives them manifold power.

Fifty nations use it

The use of Pepsodent has spread the world over, largely by dental advice. Careful people of some fifty nations now employ it daily. Thus it is bringing a new dental era. The glistening teeth you see everywhere now show how widely it is used.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear.

In one week you will gain a new idea of what clean teeth mean. And all in your home will always want those whiter, safer teeth. Cut out the coupon now.

A Perfumed Velvety Cream That Removes Hair Like Magic.

More pleasant than depilatories. Better than a razor.

Until the discovery of Veet Cream, women have had to resort to scraping razor blades and evil-smelling, irritating depilatories to remove superfluous hair. A razor only stimulates the growth of hair just as trimming a hedge makes it grow faster and thicker. The burning Barium Sulphide used in depilatories often causes red blotches, painful irritation, soreness and skin blemishes. Veet Cream does not contain any Barium Sulphide or other poisonous chemical. Veet will not encourage the growth of hair, and has no offensive odour. Whereas razors and ordinary depilatories simply remove the hair above the skin surface, Veet melts the hair away beneath it. It is as easy and pleasant to use as a face cream. You simply spread Veet on just as you would the tube, wait a few minutes, rinse it off, and the hair is gone as if by magic. Satisfactory results are guaranteed in every case or your money is returned.

Veet may be obtained from all chemists, hairdressers and stores for 3/6, or it is sent direct by post, in plain wrapper to ensure privacy, upon receipt of 3/6, plus 6d. for postage and packing. (Trial size 6d.). Address: Dae Health Laboratories (Dept. 1001), 28, Bolsover Street, London, W.1.

POUDRE TOKALON

HOW FAT FOLKS MAY BECOME THIN.

BY ELIZABETH THOMAS.

Perhaps you are suddenly becoming stout, or it may be that you have been putting on weight for years. In either case the cause is the same—lack of oxygen-carrying power of the blood. This trouble occurs in adults of both sexes and all ages. It may be overcome very easily and without any of the privations that most people imagine necessary to reduce their weight.

Simply go to your chemist and get some oil of orris capsules. Take one after each meal and one before going to bed. Weigh yourself so as to know just how fast you are losing weight. Wonderful results have been accomplished by this inexpensive recipe, but be sure to get oil of orris in capsule form. If your chemist cannot supply them, send 3s. or 6s. direct to The D. J. F. Ltd., 11, Hatfield Road, London, E.C.1, and a package will be sent to you post free.—(Adv.)

Children's Dress

FROCKS THAT TELL A STORY—FOR BEST DAYS.

CHILDREN this summer will look like pages out from their very own picture books. The materials which have been devised for their play hours and best occasions are too attractive for anything. No more muftis and poplins and dull affairs like that—instead lovely washing materials that tell in coloured and printed designs all the old familiar bedtime stories that made childhood the delightful thing it is.

ALADDIN FROCKS.

Who couldn't be good when wearing a yellow frock all over which Aladdin purges his glorious adventures in sapphire blue? Or a romper over which you can follow the reckless ride of John Gilpin?

MATINEE JACKETS.

For the times there are adorable pinnies that tell the story of "The Three Bears" all round the pockets and hem, and little matinee jackets devoted to the life story of little Red Riding Hood.

HATS.

The simplest and prettiest trimming for an older girl's hat is made of ribbon. You can buy them ready made-up in all kinds of attractive ways, and they are so easily stitched into a mushroom-shaped hat of canvas, straw or felt.

And here is a more elaborate ribbon trimming very popular just now in Paris.

FOR BEST DAYS.

We have not yet lost our love for silhouette decorations, and she who has them on the walls and round the lamp and candle shades of her dining-room will welcome the new silhouette napery. Tablecloths, runners, d'oyles and napkins of snowy damask are bordered by a trail of rollicking little black figures—Pierrot, bounding after Pierrette, quaint woodland folk tumbling over one another, and enchanting babes at play. On best days in the nursery such table "petties" are warmly welcomed.

THE "FLAPPER'S" NEEDS.

There was a time when young Eve, just emerging from the schoolroom, was considered a difficult little person to dress. Hers was known as the awkward age, and mothers wrung their hands in despair over "gawky" lines and angles. Nowadays clothes for the "flapper" are so cleverly made that the awkward age is a thing of the past. How well she looks in her little walking frock of black or dark blue cloth made sleeveless and low-waisted, with its deep berthe collar of the material, which is really a capelet, and which can be substituted for one of plain white organdie on warmer days.

PHILLIDA.

Could anything be simpler than this star dash bow to trim a little girl's crimoline hat?

WHY WEAR A TRUSS?

I Cure Rupture.

Send for a Free Test, copy of my Book, and Particulars of MY £100 GUARANTEE.

This is not a wild statement made by an irresponsible individual. It is an absolute genuine and unvarnished fact, which will gladly be vouched for by scores of cured people not only in Great Britain, but also on the Continent and abroad. When I say cure, I do not simply mean that I supply a truss, pad or other appliance which is to be worn continually by sufferers in order to keep their rupture in place. I mean that my system cures the ruptured to discard all such irritating circumstances and make the part as well and strong as it was before the rupture occurred.

My Book, copy of which I will gladly send you free, explains fully how you may cure yourself, without pain or inconvenience, by this system. I discovered it after I had suffered myself for years with double rupture, which the doctors said was incurable. It cured me, and I felt that it was my bounden duty to give the whole world at large the benefit of my discovery, with the result that for many years now I have been curing rupture in all parts of the globe.

You will probably be interested to receive with the Free Book and Test, signed testimonials from a few out of the many cured patients. Do not waste time and money in trying to obtain elsewhere what my discovery offers, as you will only be incurring disappointment. Just sit down and fill in the coupon at the foot of this announcement, post it to me, and the Book, Copy of my Guarantee, Test, and the particulars you need will reach you promptly. Please send no money whatever.

FREE TEST COUPON.

H.S.H. PRINCESS CATHERINE YOURIEVSKY

Daughter of the Late Alexander II., Emperor of Russia, writes: "I want to write and tell you what a wonderful restorative your Phosferine is. I always make a point of taking it whenever I feel tired and run down. After the terrible hardships and privations I had to undergo during the Revolution in Russia, when the Bolsheviks robbed me of all my possessions, my health became seriously impaired; and now I have my living to earn and have become a professional singer, I take your admirable tonic Phosferine as a pick-me-up whenever I need it before my concerts."

Parents find that Phosferine is peculiarly adapted to children of a pale, or weakly physique, and to those outgrowing their strength. Two drops, night and morning, tend to brace up the whole system, restore colour to the cheeks, firmness to the flesh, renew the appetite and encourage a vigorous and healthy growth, and at the same time fortify the body against attacks of illness. It is also valuable to women beset with household worries and family cares.

NEW COMPLEXION IMPROVER

It Clears and Smooths the Skin, and Makes it 2 to 4 Tones Lighter.

A WONDER-WORKING new skin and complexion aid has been attracting crowds at the demonstrations of its possibilities at the "Daily Express" Woman's Exhibition at Olympia, London.

The new aid to beauty is "Kemolite"—a rare Radio-Active deposit from the volcanic hot spring wells at Piatany, the world-famous Czechoslovakian Spa.

Mixed into a clean creamy paste with hot water, spread on the skin; allowed to dry and then removed, brings out all the natural beauties of the skin and complexion.

Fervent expressions of admiration greeted the charming result of each demonstration upon the eager volunteers for the new beauty treatment.

Anyone can use "Kemolite" at home, and with equally delightful improvements of the skin and complexion. Every woman and girl who tries "Kemolite" is amazed with its natural radio-active beautifying properties. It is a true beauty tonic, and does not dry or darken the skin like most powders and creams.

Kemolite

The New Radio-Active Beauty Aid.

is a refined dry powder form of the Piatany Mud, used in the world-famous curative mud baths for rheumatism, gout, sciatica, etc. Doctors everywhere know the wonderful properties of the Piatany Mud.

A truly remarkable experiment in the new beauty culture can be carried out by any reader at home with a 3s. 6d. (trial size) or 6s. 6d. sealed pot of the genuine "Kemolite," obtainable at all good-class ladies' hairdressers, chemists and stores, or in case of difficulty direct from "Kemolite" Demonstrator Salons at Phyllis Earle, Ltd., 15, North Audley St. (near Selfridge's), London, W.1. A DEBT OF HONOUR

By MAY EDGINTON

The oblivious girl did not know that her weary landlady stood dreaming on the stairs outside to hear the song, nor of the small, poor crowd who collected slowly beneath her half-open window and waited there.

HOW THE STORY BEGAN.

ANNA LAND, employed as forewoman at the Garnet Printing Works, London, lives alone in two little rooms, which, mean though they are, she has made her home. She is visited by her sister Lucia, Mrs. Aveline, a woman twenty years older than herself, who has had three husbands and is rich in worldly possessions.

Anna has only seen her sister once since she was a tiny tot of four—eighteen years ago. The contrast between the two sisters is marked—Lucia, rich, restless, pleasure-loving, striving to offset her material success against her spiritual poverty; Anna, young, pure, idealistic, willing to sacrifice everything to self-expression, which in her case is music.

Lucia wants to help her young sister and to engineer a good marriage for her, but Anna will have none of it.

Anna has a friend, Bertie Silver, manager of the Garnet Works, a strong, saturnine individual whom, instinctively, she distrusts. Nevertheless, they are good friends and often go about together. Silver declares his love for her, but Anna is not ready for marriage yet, and tells him so.

King Garnet, owner of the Garnet Works, is on a tour of inspection when he meets Anna and displays interest in her. Silver is jealous. He hints darkly to Anna that Garnet's position may not be so secure as it appears. When presently Anna sees Lucia again, her sister cannot convince her that her own way in life is better than Anna's.

FALSE AND TRUE.

ANNA got to her feet.

"Well," said Lucia, with her little twisted smile, "I've had eighteen good years."

"There are many more, Lucia, dear."

"You're not going, Anna? Why are you standing up?"

"I'm going to practise for the whole evening."

"How you believe in yourself! But don't go, Anna. Sit down and we'll have fresh tea and cigarettes. I've a great deal of time to waste."

She rang for more tea.

"A few minutes more, then, Lucia."

"And I'll be cheerful. Some day, Anna, you must come and sing when I have a party. It might do you good. Have you a frock to wear?"

"Not what you call a frock."

"You can wear one of mine. More tea, Marie."

The little French maid, very suave, very smiling, went out with the teapot.

"I shall go to Cannes," said Lucia. "I have quite decided now. I am too money for words."

"Why don't you do some work, Lucia?"

"Work!"

"Philanthropic work. Unpaid work. There is plenty for rich women like you. Why don't you do it?"

Lucia was quiet for a while. A shiver ran over her.

"Not yet," she said. "Not yet." She smiled ironically. "I've seen women come to it, though. Many women. And I've laughed more or less compassionately." Her brooding mood fell again. "I wonder who will laugh at me!"

Marie came in, deposited the teapot, and made a graceful exit again.

"Everyone will laugh at me," said Lucia very quietly, answering herself.

She began to pour the tea.

"Why should they laugh?" asked Anna.

"They must be fools."

(All the characters in this story are fictitious. Translation, dramatic and all other rights reserved.)

"Perhaps they are," said Lucia. "But the laughter of fools isn't a thing I can bear very easily. Still, all that kind of thing can be staved off a while yet. Can't it? Ten years, Anna? Another ten years, of sorts, I give myself."

Anna thought carefully over a reply.

"I've seen women of fifty and fifty-two looked wonderful," said Lucia quickly, "perfectly wonderful."

"You won't look at any other side of life, then, Lucia? Children; love; real love, not only an affair of pearl necklaces."

"Love is all the same."

Wait. Wait and see."

"It is what I am going to do, Lucia."

Below them the door bell sounded. Lucia sat forward listening.

Anna saw a faint flush creep into her sister's face. The front door had opened and closed.

"I wonder if anyone came in?" said Lucia.

"You said you were not at home."

"I know. I know. Not at home."

There's always someone to whom one is always at home, somehow. It might be."

Her voice trailed off.

Marie entered.

"Mr. Bobby is downstairs, madame."

"Send him up," said Lucia, "in two minutes."

Marie left suavely.

"I didn't expect him," said Lucia in a light, pleased, embarrassed voice.

"I thought he was rehearsing his day."

She draped her peignoir deftly round her. He never keeps away from me for long. She was at the dressing-table, powdering her face swiftly.

"Is he coming up here, Lucia?"

"Why, yes, my dear. I always see my friends anywhere."

She put a touch of red on her lips.

"I shall let you off to your practising, my child, now that I have someone else to bore."

She draped her peignoir deftly round her. She had suddenly taken on an evanescent sparkle, a lightness and happiness. Anna rose, put on her coat, snatched her gloves just as the door opened again.

"Mr. Bobby," uttered Marie, like velvet.

Anna heard Lucia cry, "Paul!" She just saw a tallish, very slim, youth, with oiled hair swept back from his forehead, dark face, large dark eyes, and a smile of experienced ingenueness, as she slipped by him and went out.

She passed down a softly carpeted stairway, through a dim, warm, flower-scented hall, and yet somehow was glad to leave it all for the cold street.

Her childish envy of Lucia had long passed; her admiration given place to tenderest pity. She who stood at the break of the morning was sorrowful for the sister whose autumn came so early and so frostily.

When she reached home a heavier scent than the odour of last night's roses assailed her. The air was languid with lilies. Again there was a big wash-bowl on the round table, and the lilies filled it.

She ran forward eagerly—in spite of all her cautionary tactics with herself—just to see—

But there was no word. Not one.

She put the lilies on the top of the piano.

She sat down to the piano presently, with the happy feeling of a woman soft among darling luxuries. She began to finger delicately the Barcarolle of Hoffmann. The song was one suited to her voice, her temperament; even to her transient mood of to-night.

"Night of stars and night of love..."

The oblivious girl did not know that her weary landlady stood dreaming on the stairs outside to hear the song, nor of the small, poor crowd who collected slowly beneath her half-open window and waited there.

THE HUNTER.

KING GARNET waited in his car outside the printing works.

He had not taken his chauffeur, and he was not using his big touring car. He had taken his mother's little coupé, and he was driving it himself. It was inconspicuous and small among the big vans that still, at closing time, lumbered in and out of the yard, and the bicycles of messengers and the tricycle-carriers and the hand-carts.

He had sent no word to Anna Land; he was just, as he said to himself, chancing it. But there was one thing which, with his impish sense of humour, he had done. He had invented a pretext by which some third person should keep Silver behind in the office for a few minutes after official closing time.

The third person knew nothing of the game; Silver knew nothing. Only King Garnet knew, and laughed to himself in the darkness of the little coupé.

He was not going to vex Anna Land with any kind of wordy-duel with Silver about the business of escorting her. He hoped lazily, and yet with a relish that rather surprised himself, to catch her in a propitious temper, and he would speak her fair—very fair.

King Garnet knew what was a propitious temper for a working girl. When she was tired at the end of the day; when all the early morning sparkle of her sheer youth had been worked off; when the anticipation of a real good dinner looked even better than the dinner itself would taste; when she didn't much care, — If there could be added to this raw weather, darkness, frost or drizzle, no matter which, so long as it was cold; a touch of fog, so that the usual journey home by omnibus or tramcar would be wearying, so much the better.

Yet, wistful, he was a kind young man; and so far all his light-hearted prowlings had not yet made of him a cad or a beast.

He hunted girls with the same joyful zeal with which he hunted deer or fished for salmon.

"The finest girl—absolutely the finest—I've ever run across," he was thinking to himself of Anna Land. And as the thought formulated — he was watching the big door of exit for the workers—she emerged at the tail of a stream of rapidly dispersing girls.

"Different from any of 'em; so different!" he said to himself, bounding from the car.

There was still a light shining through the wire half-blind of the office window where Silver and an innocent third person held converse.

Garnet intercepted Anna without loss of time.

"Miss Land."

"Mr. Garnet."

"Yes, I. Good-evening. I was just—that is to say, I have a car here; it's beastly foggy; I hope you'll let me drive you home."

"Thank you; but I take the tramcar along the Bankers' street."

"The foggiest stretch in London, of course. Please don't be ungracious, Miss Land, but let me drive you home. I already know where you live."

"I know you do," she replied slowly.

The light in Silver's office was suddenly switched out. Garnet glanced swiftly at the dark window, but no more swiftly than did Anna.

He knew that she wished to escape Silver to-night. She knew that Garnet knew. It established an ethereal friendliness of conspiracy between them.

"Quick!" he cried, with a shining smile; and it was so much a boy's smile of delighted achievement that when he took her arm she suddenly quickened her steps and ran beside him to the little car waiting on the other side of the yard.

They were in the car and out of the yard before Silver emerged from the works, cursing at his delay.

Garnet drove for a short way, and then pulled up beside the kerb, took his hands off the wheel and turned to her. Sounds and shapes of traffic were so dim in the fog that it was almost as if they were alone.

"We're all right here for a second or two," he said. "My tail light's an extra good one. I've stopped to tell you something; I'm not taking you straight home."

She looked at him. He looked back, quite earnestly. He had an honest anxiety to do right in her eyes; for the evening, anyway.

"Listen," he said, "I do want to talk to you. I want to know you. I want to be friends. I'm taking you out for some dinner and a talk. You would have refused if I'd asked you. I've abducted you! So far, so good. Be kind and make it good all the way," he said very persuasively. "I know you don't want to dine in town because you would say you hadn't been given time to change your frock."

He smiled his smile of habitual tender understanding, and then, seeing her quick and correct assimilation of this smile, he crased it with a little guilty dismay in his mind. She knew him.

"So I thought we'd just run down to Richmond," he said. "Will you?"

Anna looked out into the fog.

"Of course you will," he murmured persuasively, waiting for her frock.

"It is no use taking me for granted," she said firmly.

"I'm not! I'm not! May we, please, shake hands on the good intention, and shall we go on?"

Anna found her cold and somewhat grubby hand in King Garnet's warm and clean one.

She smiled thoughtfully.

"Men are a nuisance," she said.

"I won't be a nuisance. I just long for a talk with you, and, as I say, we must start sometime, somehow, somewhere." He slipped on his furred driving gauntlet again and felt for the gear lever. "Why not like this?"

He started the car.

"Brought off the first bit all right," he thought jubilantly.

Another fine instalment to-morrow.

A Memory of Fragrance

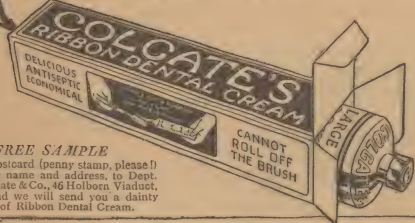

IN Ribbon Dental Cream this month there lies within the larger packet a dainty phial of perfume.

It is a little gift from Colgate's.

Fair readers will find no lack of means to use so sweet an essence, but for men, to whom such things are over-feminine, will they in courtesy ask of sister or wife that she bedew her kerchief with its fragrant drops and keep the name 'Dactylis' in her memory.

Only the larger packet of Colgate's dentifrice—the one that costs a shilling—contains the phial.

Pains Like Knife Cutting into Back

TORTURED BY BACKACHE AND RHEUMATISM FOR OVER NINE YEARS. ALMOST GAVE UP HOPE

SAYS FIRST DOSE OF De WITT'S PILLS GAVE RELIEF

CEASELESS laceration of nerves, veins, tissues and muscles by hard uric acid crystals in the blood causes agony which only those who suffer from:

Backache — Rheumatism — Lumbago — Sciatica, Gout, etc.

can really understand but De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills will give instant relief, even in cases which have defied every other known method of treatment.

Here is the testimony of a lady who, to use her own words, "suffered indescribable agonies," but De Witt's Pills cured her. "For over 9 years," writes Mrs. J. M. Peters, 2, Ashley Terrace, Selly Oak, Birmingham, "I suffered such agony from Backache and Rheumatism that I never thought I should get well again. Frequently the attacks of pain came suddenly, just like a knife cutting into the small of my back. No one knows how I suffered for 1 could not sleep or bend to do my housework. I became irritable and depressed and my face was drawn with pain. The doctors I consulted could not cure me and I had almost given up hope when a friend persuaded me to try De Witt's Pills. I am glad I did for the first dose gave me relief and in a very short time the pains had all gone."

Similar results are obtained in every case in which De Witt's Pills are used. The first dose gives relief and in a few days swollen joints resume normal size and aches and pains disappear.

There is no other remedy capable of giving such good results so quickly and therefore sufferers should insist upon having the genuine De Witt's Pills. They cured Mrs. Peters after 9 years of suffering and they will certainly do as much for any sufferer who gives them a trial.

Guarantee

A box of the genuine De Witt's Kidney and Bladder Pills will only cost you 3s. at any chemist shop, and we invite you to get a box and take them regularly for three days. If they fail to give convincing proof of their ability to cure, you simply return the remainder of the pills to The De Witt Laboratories, East Croydon, and we will refund your 3s. and your postage, so that the trial will cost you nothing.

$196,613 FOR CHARITY IN LONDON STREETS.

Report on 1922 Collections—

"Honestly Conducted."

FLAG DAYS ON WANE.

During 1922 a total of £196,613 was collected for charitable institutions in the streets in the Metropolitan Police area, at an expenditure of £25,502, leaving a balance for distribution of £171,111.

So states a report, issued yesterday by the Advisory Committee on London street collections.

Since 1916, when accounts were first insisted upon, upwards of a million and a half pounds have been collected for various charitable objects at an administrative expense of approximately 124 per cent.

Of the total amount available for charities a large proportion has gone to hospitals, which, in 1922 alone, benefited to the extent of £109,767, as against £55,550 in 1921.

The proportion of expenses to receipts is in general higher in the case of small than of large collections. A principal cause of this is the constant employment of paid bands.

There is a marked tendency to collect by means of processions and "carnivals" as opposed to the sale of flags and emblems by stationary collectors, which are now found to be less popular and effective.

The committee concludes: "With very few exceptions, the system of collection and distribution has, they believe, been honestly conducted."

NEW CARTON PLAY.

Mr. Percy Hutchison's Production at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith.

By Our Dramatic Critic.

"One Too Many," a domestic farce by R. C. Carton, which has already been seen in some of the provincial cities, was introduced to London last night at the King's Theatre, Hammersmith, where it had a cordial reception.

The story deals with two Nonconformist deacons who had surreptitiously taken shares in a Hippodrome in their home town and were afraid of being found out.

But the main incidents of the plot are concerned with a young man, with historician ambitions, who, to compound the hindings, impersonates first one of them and then makes-up as the deacon's wife.

A series of good farcical situations ensues, though they might have been more convincing if Mr. Percy Hutchison's imitations had been closer to the originals. There is some excellent acting, especially by Mr. Stanley Turnbull as a butcher and Miss Dorothy Lawrence as drudge.

VICAR'S SON IN DOCK.

Charge of Wounding Father of His Former Sweetheart.

Strange evidence was given at Nottingham yesterday, when a student, Albert Eric Fleming, aged twenty-three, son of the vicar of Mapperley, was remanded in custody, charged with wounding William E. Sargeant, of Porchester-road, Nottingham.

Fleming, it was stated, had been courting Mr. Sargeant's eighteen-year-old daughter Bertha. On Saturday the police were called to Mr. Sargeant's house and found him in a bedroom badly cut. Fleming was sitting in a chair near by. Mr. Sargeant was sleeping in the room usually occupied by Bertha.

U.S. SHIPS LESS DRY.

Intoxicants at Sea and in Foreign Ports To Be Permitted.

WASHINGTON, Monday. The Supreme Court to-day held that foreign and American steamships are prohibited from bringing into American ports intoxicating liquors for outward-bound passengers.

At the same time, American steamships are not prohibited from having aboard intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes on the high seas and in foreign ports.—Reuter.

CROYDON TEACHERS GO BACK.

Croydon school teachers who went on strike yesterday signed the form of acceptance of the council's terms. Every school will, therefore, be open again to-day.

All Lowestoft schools will reopen to-day. 125 new teachers having been appointed. About 1,500 parents last night resolved to keep their children away until the old teachers are reinstated.

DEATHBED CALL.

Wireless Enables Mother to See Dying Son.

MOTOR-CAR DASH.

By means of a broadcasting call, when all other means of communication had failed, a mother was able to see her son just before he died.

A son of Mrs. Carr, of Flitwick, Amptill, Bedfordshire, was lying dangerously ill in the Middlesex Hospital, and the hospital authorities appealed to the British Broadcasting Company to find means of conveying her quickly to the hospital.

From the first moment that the request to Mrs. Carr was broadcast, all wireless motor-cars were made until, something like thirty cars had been tendered for the conveyance of Mrs. Carr to London.

In the meantime, however, a Bedford "listener-in" had got out his motor and taken Mrs. Carr to the railway station at Luton, where she caught a late train for London.

The mother was thus enabled to travel to the hospital and was at the bedside of her son to the end.

SOLO DANCING CONTEST.

Finalists for Silver Cups Given by "The Daily Mirror."

The final of the "solo" dancing competition in aid of the "Sunshine" Homes for Blind Babies and the Greater London Fund for the Blind will be held at the Kingsway Theatre on Tuesday, May 15.

Amateur and professional dancers have both been eligible, and competitors have been divided into four classes—A, B, C and D—their ages varying from under seven to twenty-one years.

Widespread interest has been aroused by the competition. Preliminary trials took place at Armitage Hall, at the National Institution for the Blind, where some excellent operatic, classical and character dancing was seen.

It will be the finalists in Groups C and D—classic, character and operatic dancing by competitors aged from seven to eleven and from fifteen to twenty-one respectively—who will compete for two handsome silver cups given by "The Daily Mirror."

AFTER BIG GAME IN CAR

Thrilling Wild Life Film of 50,000-Mile Trek at London Pavilion.

By Our Film Critic.

A battle royal between a motor-car and a war-hog is one of the features of the new film, "Hunting Big Game in Africa," which was produced at the London Pavilion last night.

The film depicts a 50,000-mile journey through Africa, when a motor-car was used to pursue big game.

More than fifty different wild animals figure in this very interesting picture. There is also a glimpse of a huge colony of jackass penguins on deserted islands off the South African coast. The stampeding of a herd of elephants, a struggle with a man-eating lion, the capture of a tiger, the swarms of the Tsetse (sleeping sickness) fly and a thrilling picture of an elephant charging the camera are a few of the varied incidents filmed.

BANK'S £25,000 CLAIM.

Jury Disagree in Action Against Dead Earl's Executors.

After more than two hours' absence, the jury failed to agree upon a verdict in the action brought by the London City and Midland Bank, Ltd., against Llewellyn Wynne Leed and Cecil Gardner (executors of the late Earl of Shrewsbury), Sir Henry Busby Bird, of Lordship Park, N., and James Gibson, of Lucy-street, Manchester.

The bank claimed £25,000, the amount of an overdraft on the account of the Aniline Dye and Chemical Co., Ltd., now in liquidation, of which the late Earl of Shrewsbury, Sir Henry Bird and Mr. Gibson were directors.

The main defence was that the late Earl and Sir Henry were induced to sign a guarantee for the overdraft on the alleged fraudulent representation of Gibson that they were signing merely a bank specimen signature form. Gibson did not enter an appearance, and was not present or represented at the hearing of the action.

SENTENCES FOR FRAUD.

Found guilty at the Old Bailey yesterday of conspiring to defraud investors in a company called Huxley and Denman, Limited, Edwin Alexander Enever was sentenced to three years' penal servitude, Henry Bennett to fifteen months in the second division, and Leslie Ernest Haynes to six months in the second division.

FASHION FAIR BALL POSTPONED.

The directors of "The Daily Mirror" regret that, owing to unforeseen circumstances, they are not able to proceed with the Carnaby Ball, which they had hoped to arrange in connection with the International Fashion Fair for Thursday at Holland Park Hall. This event has, therefore, been indefinitely postponed.

TABLE TENNIS FIGHT.

Draw for Finalists in "Daily Mirror" Competition.

TO-DAY'S STRUGGLE.

Miss Yvonne Arnaud, the charming actress who is playing lead in "Tons of Money" at the Aldwych Theatre, will make the draw for the final rounds of "The Daily Mirror" Table Tennis Championships at 2 p.m. to-day at Selfridge's in the presence of the players. Play will begin immediately afterwards.

Miss Arnaud was a competitor in the women's championship, and is a player of considerable skill, but she was defeated in the London area games after making an excellent start.

Sixty-four men and twenty women from all parts of the United Kingdom will take part in to-day's games. Spectators may obtain free tickets of admission, which are strictly limited, on application to Messrs. Selfridge and Co.

To-morrow, at 7 p.m., the eight survivors of to-day's rounds will meet at the Stadium Club for the semi-final and final rounds. Lord Desborough will be present.

Tickets of admission (5s., 3s. and 2s.) may still be obtained on application to Colonel C. Bartlett, National Institute for the Blind, Great Portland-street, W.1.

MILLINERY WEEK.

Silks and Wools That Every Woman Should See—Artistic Hair Hints.

There is this week bound to be a great rush to Derry and Toms, where the great millinery world is beginning to-day.

Here are a thousand beautiful creations suitable for all occasions, and every one is priced at 12s. 11d.

Hawes Bros., of St. John's-road, Clapham Junction, are holding a special bargain week in wools and silks, at prices within the reach of everyone.

Sleek, shining hair is the ambition of every woman. Much may be done towards its attainment by the regular use of Amami shampoos, which are manufactured in a series providing for all tints of hair.

Moreover, there is a complete range of Amami toilet requirements, all delicately perfumed, which may be obtained at moderate prices at any chemist's, or from Messrs. Frichard and Constance, 57, Haymarket, S.W.1.

In the changeable weather of English spring there is a definite need among women for underwear which, while being protectively warm, is yet soft and light. Lena-Lastik underwear exactly meets this demand, and, moreover, it is most moderate in price.

A novel knitting and crochet competition is announced by the British Cellulose and Chemical Manufacturing Company.

Any article knitted or crocheted with "Celacene" stands a chance of winning one of the many prizes, which amount in all to £1,500. The prizes range from £150 for single garments.

£2,500 BEAUTY COMPETITION

VOTING COUPON.

(Valid only for use in connection with photographs published during the week ending Saturday, May 5.)

To the Manager, Beauty Competition Dept., "The Daily Mirror," 47, Lombard-street, E.C.4. My selection of the six most beautiful entrants in order of merit is as follows:—

IMPORTANT.

This coupon should be cut out and retained. It cannot be completed and sent in until the whole of the week's twenty-four photographs have been published. Six photographs of senior entrants appear to-day, and six were published yesterday. From the twelve, readers should select two and indicate their choice in the first two spaces on the coupon.

STOMACH TROUBLES QUICKLY REMEDIED

Disorders of the stomach are, generally speaking, always caused by harmful acid which accumulates, causing fermentation within the stomach and often agonising pain. You have only to get rid of the excess acid and strengthen the stomach-lining, when the whole trouble will leave you, and Bisaurated Magnesia is the medically-advised way of doing this. The instant you take a dose of Bisaurated Magnesia all possibility of digestive pain ceases to exist, because this preparation immediately counteracts the cause of the discomfort.

It doesn't matter whether your trouble be indigestion, gastritis or dyspepsia; whatever it is, if it causes pain in the stomach Bisaurated Magnesia will give you the relief you have long sought. Get a package to-day from the nearest chemist; it costs but 1s. 3d. for either powder or tablet form, and the first dose will convince you that your stomach troubles will quickly be remedied.—(Advt.)

THE 3-MINUTE Perfumed Cream HAIR REMOVER

A real CREAM with a real perfume—ready for use.

WHY waste 10 to 20 minutes to remove your unwanted hair when NILLO will do it in 3 minutes? With Nillo you simply take a little from the glass-stoppered jar and apply straight to the unwanted hair. Nillo removes all unwanted hair with amazing speed, and leaves the skin soft and smooth. No misting, no waiting—no unpleasant odour—not a sign of irritation or soreness—no bathing—no mess—no trouble whatever. And Nillo has the bouquet of a bottle of the finest French perfume. So wonder-ladies—Nillo is marvellous. Nillo is guaranteed—money refunded in case of dissatisfaction.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Grey Hair With a Home-Made Mixture.

Joicy Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about grey hair and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken grey, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Orlex Compound, and $\frac{1}{2}$ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any chemist's at a very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a grey-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not colour the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—(Advt.)

A Baby to be Proud of Every mother knows that if a baby cannot be breast fed the food should be the closest possible equivalent to mother's milk. Mellin's Food, when prepared as directed, is a complete infant's food, and produces the same results as breast milk.

That is why Mellin's Food is readily assimilated by babies with weak digestion, and why a "Mellin's Food Baby" makes excellent all-round progress and grows up strong and happy—a baby to be proud of. Experiments are risky and unnecessary—Mellin's Food has proved during many years its suitability for children of all ages.

Mellin's Food has been a boon to this bonny boy.

His mother, Mrs. Carter, of Arnold, Notts., writes:—"Gordon Roy Carter has had Mellin's Food since 5 months old. I cannot speak too highly of Mellin's Food. He has just turned 16 months now and I am very proud of him."

CURES BY SYSTEMATIC HOMOEOPATHY

No Wholesale Drugging, or Needless Operations.

A BOOK THAT MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.

A BOOK that is making history is now in its Eleventh Edition.

Many of "The Daily Mirror" readers have heard of it, and Thousands of former Sufferers from Painful or Distressing Chronic Maladies bless the day when first it came into their hands.

For in this book (published by L. G. Adam and Co., 85, New Oxford Street, London, W.C.1) are related Medical Truths of the Highest Importance, such as, in the opinion of Many acquainted with it, are ushering in a New Epoch in the Medical Treatment of Chronic Maladies.

Already, for some years past, by the influence of this remarkable book, many Men and Women (of all social conditions and rank) have undoubtedly been restored to Health, Strength, and Freedom from Pain, men and women who previously had given up all thought of ever being well again.

MALADIES CURED.

Amongst those who owe their Health and Happiness to the methods described in this book are men and women who suffered from such Chronic Maladies as:

- Neurasthenia
- Headaches
- Migrain
- Spinal Troubles
- Neuralgia
- Constipation
- Indigestion
- Mucous Catarrh
- Liver Troubles
- Exophthalmic Goitre
- Diabetes
- Heart Troubles
- Arterio-Sclerosis
- Angina Pectoris
- Varicose Veins
- Piles
- Rheumatism
- Gout
- Skin Troubles
- Throat Affections
- Bronchitis
- Asthma
- Early Consumption
- Stone in Kidneys

and many other Chronic Kidney, Bladder or Prostate Complaints. Patent Medicaments had proved useless. The usual Medical Treatment had failed to restore them. In some cases, Operations had been performed—in vain. And the Sufferers were on the verge of Despair.

And then they heard (often from Friends who had been Completely Cured) of SYSTEMATIC HOMOEOPATHY (as this wonderfully successful Treatment is called) and the Marvellous Results it is producing. They bought the book. They were fascinated by its simple—yet thorough—Method. Now they also are cured, and are numbered amongst innumerable Enthusiastic Adherents of SYSTEMATIC HOMOEOPATHY.

RICE AND DUPONT.

Important Light-Weight Contest
at the N.S.C. To-night.

BELGIAN'S FINE RECORD.

Henri Dupont, of Belgium, has jumped into prominence among the European light-weights with such rapidity that, although he has already gained three most convincing victories over very useful British boxers, few people are yet aware how good he really is.

To-night he has a real test, and if he emerges successful he must be regarded as one of the best light-weights in Europe to-day.

At the National Sporting Club this evening he meets the ex-light-weight champion, Ernie Rice, a boxer who has never been knocked out, and who is probably in better fettle now than at any time in his career.

He will find, however, that he cannot trifle with the Belgian, who has not been defeated for over three years and has a punch good enough to floor any man in the game.

Coming to England practically unknown, Dupont was matched against the useful little Ammanford boxer, Idris Jones, who went twenty rounds with Mike Honeyman when the latter held the feather-weight championship.

Dupont took time to settle down, but in the tenth session landed right to the point with a real wallop and ended the contest very decisively.

DEVANNEY EASILY BEATEN.

Then he went to Manchester and was altogether too smart for another Welshman, Edgar Evans, winning much more easily than he did against Jones.

His third and most recent contest in this country was at the Ring, when he met the Hamilton boy, Willie Devannee. The Scot had fought Rice at N.S.C. only a few days previously, and although outclassed managed to last four rounds against the Hamilton fighter.

The faced worse against Dupont, however, and took a lot of heavy punishment before the bout was stopped in the third session.

Although Rice still favours his peculiar guard that earned for him the name of "Elbows Rice," he is employing the straight left more now than he used to, and has earned high praise in his recent contests.

Dupont finishes off his fight with a right to the jaw, but he weakens his man first with heavy body blows.

The contest, by the way, is the principal attraction at a tournament in aid of the St. Mary's (Paddington) and West London Hospitals, and Roland Todd and Jack Bloomfield will appear in an exhibition bout.

Happy Days

Keep young and you'll keep happy.
Keep happy and you'll keep young. Keep healthy and you'll keep both.

Age is not rightly measured by years.
Look at the "old boy" here, for instance.
In spirit and in energy he's just as young as ever he was. His health is as robust, his enjoyment of life as keen: in spite of his sixty years, old age has passed him by.

That's what Kruschen has done for him.
Every morning he drops into his breakfast cup of tea just enough Kruschen Salts to cover a sixpence. He cannot taste the tiny dose, but its effects are almost magical.
He knows nothing of headaches, depression, constipation, the scores of little ills that make life a burden to so many people.

Gout and rheumatism cannot touch him.
The little daily dose of Kruschen removes the cause of them all—the cause that is to be found in an impure blood stream and a sluggish internal system.

The Kruschen bath gently but thoroughly stimulates the liver and kidneys to a proper performance of their duty, removes waste matter and impurities from the system and sends clear, vigorous blood streaming to every part of the body, renewing health and happiness and whole-hearted enjoyment of life.

Kruschen Salts

Tasteless in Tea

Good Health for a Farthing a Day

A 1s. 9d. bottle of Kruschen Salts contains 96 doses—enough for three months—which means good health for less than a farthing a day. The dose prescribed for daily use is "as much as will lie on a sixpence," taken in the breakfast cup of tea. Every chemist sells Kruschen. Get a 1s. 9d. bottle and start to-morrow.
